Spring to be flung across CAMPUS

by Mad Damnbush

Now that the Miss SUSL Pageant is finally over, the Council of Programs has gotten around to announcing the activities for the rest of the spring semester.

Several Sandwich Villages will be held at various days during the semester, the first one being held April 1 from 9 p.m. to 1 a.m. Council members will provide all the sandwiches students can stuff down and keep down while listening to the sickening music of the Vomiting Ventriloquists.

All of the movies for the rest of the semester have been cancelled according to Joe Simon-says-stop. "The people have started going to the Glenwood, and we just can't compete," said Simon-says-stop.

Spring Flung will be a week of weird festivities this year. To start things off right, a car bash will be held on Monday.

Students will be allowed to bash their favorite teachers' cars with a sledge hammer (three bashes for a quarter.)

Beach Day will be held Tuesday. Sand will be imported from Lake Bisteneau and spread in the mall around the fountains. Bruce, the star of "Jaws," will be on hand (and maybe foot and knee) to sign autographs. Students are asked not to wade in the fountain water.

The Panhellenic Style Show and the three-mile run, which will be held on Wednesday, will be combined this year in order to save time. Models will run around the road circling SUSL one time in each dress. The first girl to model 20 dresses in the fastest time around the road wins five cases of Slat's beer.

Carnival Day will be held on Thursday. The Agriculture Club and the Biology Club will combine their talents and efforts this year in order to sell, in their booth, exotic carnivorous plants.

Spring Flung will culminate Friday when the University Center birthday party will be held. "The whole idea behind Spring Flung is the birthday of the University Center," said Doray Worn, president of the Council of Programs.

Students will be asked to help celebrate the UC's birthday by coming to school wearing only their birthday suits.

The kiss-off-a-thon and the hairy legs contest (for girls only), will be held Friday right before the cutting of the birthday cake.

Rumors are coming over the grapevine that D. Fink, president of the SBA, is already grooming for the Hairy Chest Contest, which will also be held Friday. This contest is open to both men and women.

Other activities from the Council of Programs have not been announced because they have not been planned yet.

Student rolls increase

People crawling from woodwork

by Crackerjack

The past few semesters, SUSL has enjoyed something few colleges can boast about. Besides insufficient parking and enough apathy to choke a full-grown rhinoceros, that is.

It's enrollment, folks. The university is growing like weeds in a pea-patch. Numbers recently released by the SUSL Office of Head Counting and Drop Slips bears this new trend out, leaving some top-level administrative officials beside themselves with joy.

"I am beside my self with joy," a top-level administrative official said, after reading the preceding paragraph. "Of course, all these new students will have to park at Skaggs-Albertson's, but we're happy to have their money."

Enrollment figures for the spring semester for 1982 shows an increase of 500 students over a year ago. In terms of total weight gained, averaging incoming student weight at 150 pounds per student-unit, the school is up over 75,000 pounds from a year ago. With the average student standing 70 inches tall, the school is now 2,750 feet taller than before. Or roughly 65 meters, if you've converted to the metric system.

With the average student yawning 16 times every class period, with an average of four class periods each week, the increase brings the university's dullness level up by 32,000 yawns per week.

Other increases in the area of trips to the bathroom, up by nearly 1,700 trips per day; skipped classes, up by better than 35,000 missed hours each semester, and inane newspaper articles, up by one since before I started this one.

Campus security said that the increase of 500 students will mean an increase of 500 parking tickets each day.

Bogus gets people off back

by Crackerjack

In an effort to "get everybody off my back," Chancellor Grade A Bogus announced which sports the university's proposed athletic program would consist of.

"We are leaning toward a program that will be built around a highly competitive Potato-racing team," the chancellor said to a meeting of the faculty's Committee of Nosey Teachers Who Should be Home Grading Test Papers.

In explaining why he chose a controversial sport like Potato-racing, Bogus said that a statewide surplus in spoons will make the sport cost efficient and the high level of prep Potato-racing in the three-state area should assure some success in recruiting student Potato-racers.

With unemployment at an all time high and more and more people going hungry, the chancellor pointed out that community interest in a sport that employs a future order of french fries should be at its zenith.

Community interest in Potato-racing is up worldwide, according to the Association of Potato Exporters. Only 25 more countries are needed to give Potato-racing the needed 26 participants for Olympic consideration. Bangladesh is already down publicly as being in favor of Olympic Potato-racing but their national team was forced to disband when someone ate the National Potato.

Other sports listed by Bogus as having a definite role in the university's athletic program was Parking Lot Roller Derby, a faculty favorite in which contestants risk insurance cancellation to be completely off the campus by 12:45, and the old reliable "Crowded Mall Frisbee," a game of skill and chance which calls for varying point allotments for the number (and physical attributes) of unsuspecting class-goers the contestant can nail with a standard weight Frisbee.

"Our athletic program's gonna be this big," Dr. Grade A. Bogus told a group of student manipulators

Biased Opinion

Equality demands it

C.P. should sponsor Mr. SUSL Pageant

Fair is fair. For two years now the male SUSL students have been able to ogle Miss SUSL contestants wearing swim suits and evening gowns as they parade across the stage.

We women demand equal privileges. Why doesn't the Council of Programs schedule a MISTER SUSL pageant this fall?

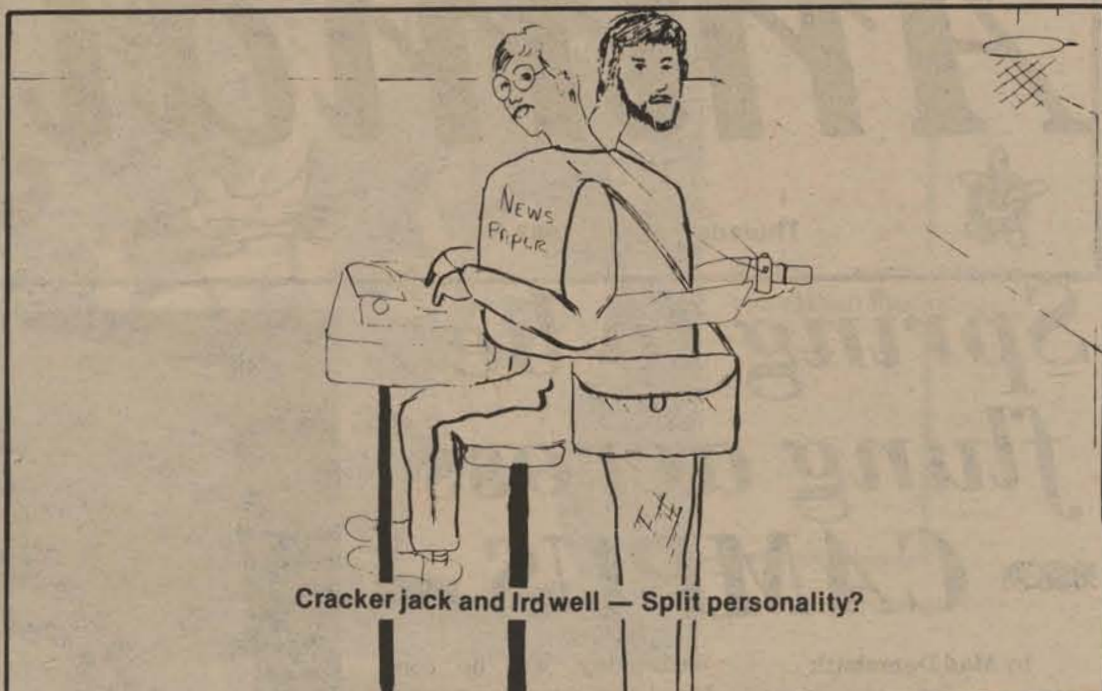

After all, if a man is capable of modeling cutoffs in a pair of tennis shoes on a huge stage in front of hundreds of people, he is capable of doing most anything without getting scared.

The Council of Programs wouldn't even have to take the time to alter the qualifications list. All unmarried men between the ages of 17 and 26 who have never been pregnant and who have talent, poise, charm, personality, intelligence and beauty of figure and face could enter the contest. (Of course, some exceptions could be made for Rick Springfield and Tom Selleck lookalikes if they didn't meet the above requirements.)

As for the argument that the pageant would be promoting men as merely sex objects ... Well, who's arguing about that, anyway?

So how about it Council of Programs? After all, Miss SUSL is lonely and needs someone to escort her to all the community functions, doesn't she?

(Chief Whipcracker's Note: For some peculiar reason the male members of the Animaljest staff forced me to write this note, explaining that they didn't have anything to do with this editorial. I guess, such MISTER SUSL hopefuls as themselves don't want to appear over-anxious.)

Animaljest grants announced

By Crackerjack and sometimes Irdwell

The idea for an Animaljest Memorial Research Grant and Free Coupon to Mama Mia's contest presented itself one night during an alcoholic exorcism on the cold floor of an unfamiliar bathroom. Society, when viewed through the Sani-Flush Reflecting Pool, could bear a considerable amount of improvement and since the state seems to have its money tied up in such earth-wrenching research projects as the effects of public television on the South American aardvark (or something equally as beneficial to mankind), we saw no reason not to get in on the action. There is always the hope that we can assist in developing something that may make the world a better place to spend time. Warm porcelain would be an excellent start in that direction.

The grants carry with them a substantial consideration in terms of money. Money is considered many times in the actual wording of the grants, with the conclusion being reached that money is a far better thing to have than even a mild case of intestinal flu. Unfortunately, money is as foreign to our bank account as a frayed pair of Levis are to a preppie's walk-in closet.

Therefore, the awards will be given in a new form of currency — back issues of the school newspaper. With James Watt running loose in Washington, leaving trees with a bleak future, there is a good chance paper may become so valuable commodity that the country goes on the "paper standard." (Some economists argue that we've been on the paper standard for several years now.)

Enough history, on with the winners.

Economics. The award, $7.83 and a genuine purple-and-gold rabbit fur coat, goes to the athletic department at LSU-Baton Rouge for their work in investigating the concept of cost overruns. They also placed high in the mathematics category for their revolutionary quation, 7 million minus 8 million greater than a 23-year-old national championship.

History. Twelve dollars and some loose change go to Ronald Reagan for his work in rewriting history. Since Mr. Reagan has lived through a pretty good bit of it, he was able to clear up quite a few factual errors. Now, he's creating a few.

Humanities. Old newspapers worth $5.16 and our deepest sympathies go to Name Withheld By Request, for his work in proving that sharp toenails are an effective contraceptive.

Psychology. For their work in proving there is no true link between human behavior and government, the state legislature will split $17.89 and two Get Out Of Jail Free cards.

Last, but certainly least, the winner of the coveted "Damn, Was That the Second Bell" Journalism grant, including the accompanying $25 stack of newspapers and two stamped, self-addressed envelopes, is the Animaljest editors. Their work proved conclusively that desperation will cause you to allow this sort of nonsense to find its way into print everytime.

The Animaljest is the official April Fool edition of the student body of the Shreveport University in the State of Louisiana. It is published yearly except for leap years, Reformed Orthodox Druid holidays and years ending in 81. Due to tears, protests and popular demand we have returned. Views and nonsense expressed on these pages are to be taken in jest and should not be interpreted as the views of the administration, faculty-staff or students.

This paper is dedicated to the lowest ideals of yellow journalism, muckraking and sensationalism. Included in these pages is all the news not fit to print. The staff of this paper dedicates their efforts to furthering the cause of stupidity.

She did what with whom?

by Leslie Spicy

Rumor has it that a certain Animaljest staff member has been spending her nights "out with the guys" — playing poker.

A high-ranking SBA official has been spotted cutting class to play Cowboys and Indians at a local nightclub.

This is one for Ripley's Believe it or Not — Manifesto members have actually met a deadline. According to Mrs. Dim, sponsor of the Manifesto, it was purely accidental.

A certain set of twins, the Bolts, have handed in their resignations to start a punk rock band. They have dyed their hair pink and purchased matching mini skirts to accompany their new image.

What SUSL secretary plans to abandon her job and take over as cruise director on the Love Boat?

Two new classes will be offered, starting immediately. They are Beginning Frisbee 101 and Advanced Frisbee Throwing. Class will be held in the hall of Bronson Hall, in front of the Animaljest office. They will be taught by veteran staff member Daltus Sky.

Dr. Pond, it has recently been discovered, is actually a reincarnation of Shakespeare's Othello. Pond is quite pleased with the discovery, and so are his students who can now see the real thing, not just some character in a literature book.

Animaljest poster pageant results in tie

by Miffy Fallbomb

Tom Selleck, Gregory Harrison, J. R. Woods, and Rick Springfield were on hand for the first annual Animaljest Poster Pageant.

The pageant conducted by SUSL newspaper staff was held in Room 344 of Bronson Hall. The stars were on hand to find out whether their poster would win the prestigious honor awarded to them by these outstanding young journalists.

Criteria for judging consisted of the following bylaws: the poster who caused the most drooling behavior from the female staff members would receive a score of 10; the poster showing the least amount of clothing on the men would receive 100 points; finally, how many times the poster appeared in The Animaljest office would earn 50 points.

As the judges tallied up the scores, tension could be seen mounted on the countenances of Selleck, Harrison, Woods, and Springfield. The three top female editors, business manager, and reporter announced that a tie had resulted in the final score.

Finally the stars agreed to model in bathing suits, selected by the judges, so that additional points could be given. When the scores were tallied up again it was found that yet another tie had resulted.

The contestants were urged to let the judging continue until the next day so the judges could recover from their strenuous duties. The contestant who could remember the judges phone numbers, favorite restaurants and favorite honeymoon spots would be the winner.

As of this moment the winners of the First Annual Animaljest Poster Pageant have not been announced. It seems as though they can't be revived yet.

Poll results revealed

by Carrot Rosegarden

In an unusual show of unapatheticness 78 of the 4,176 students enrolled at SUSL answered the recent Animaljest poll on athletics last week, revealing some surprising results.

An overwhelming number, 50 (which is a high percentage that we weren't able to figure out), felt our intercollegiate athletics team should be called the Swamp Puppies.

Other suggestions were the Cottonpickers, the Winners, the Hosers, the Rednecks and None of The Above.

Twenty students accused the Animaljest staff of making up the idea that SUSL is going to have intercollegiate athletics.

Several faculty members idiotically refused to answer the poll, fearing that the appearance of their name in the Animaljest would downgrade their image and claiming that they'd probably be misquoted.

Send your answers to next week's poll and $10 to the Animaljest immediately.

The questions are: Do you feel SUSL should have Six Flags tram trains to transport you from the parking lots to your class? Do you feel the campus cops should slash the tires of parking lot vultures who block the lanes while they wait for parking spaces? Do you feel the University Center should be turned into an underground garage whenever it rains?

After a meeting with the LSUS sororities and fraternities President Reagan discovered some valuable information on the Greek System of American Colleges and Universities.

First of all, Tri Delta sorority made a promise with the president to promote their "sisterly" conduct of good cheer through the country by joining St. Heavenly's Convent in Destin, Florida. The sorority promises to quit seeing men, and drinking alcoholic beverages except during communion services.

The Delta Sigs wer praised for their fund raiser for the March of Dimes. The fraternity had a "weigh-in" for each member and a dime for each pound of the member's weight was donated to its philanthropy. The Delta Sigs were proud to announce to Reagan that over $1 million was raised for the charity. Reagan will be flying the boys to Washington to help in getting the country out of debt.

The Kappa Alphas led President Reagan through their new fraternity house located in the right front corner of the University Center. "I really enjoyed the tour of the KA's house. It reminded me of the tents my kids used to make in the living room of our home many years ago," said President Reagan.

Phi Delta Theta reported to the president their victorious win of the intramural football league in Thibodeaux. They promised Reagan that they would win Super Bowl XVIII for the president. Phi Delta also showed great pride in informing the KA's that General Robert E. Lee was a Phi Delt.

Zeta Tau Alpha presented the leader of our country with a Zeta t-shirt. They hoped that the president would receive as much luck with the t-shirt as they do.

Reagan later announced to the LSUS faculty that with such fine people as he found in the Greek system at the school that he knew that the future of America was in good shape.

Death race '82 announced

by Irdwell Norkenheimer

Due to the rousing success of the water pistol contract "killings" last fall the Council of Programs has announced plans for Death Race '82. Instead of water pistols, participants get to use their cars as weapons.

Any student, faculty or staff member of SUSL may enter the contest by signing up in the CP office and paying a fee of $15. The "Race" will be run as a part of Spring Flung and will be in progress the entire week.

At the beginning of the week the CP will issue a list of approved "targets" and their point values. All week the drivers can rack-up points by hitting an approved target in the presence of three witnesses.

A general pedestrian will be worth 25 points while an instructor will be worth 35 and a full professor 50. There will be vehicle categories too: Pinto 30, Moped (any brand) 150, bicycles 10 and totalling a Caddy Fleetwood grabs 100.

Night students will be happy to learn that there will be a small animal category, giving 5 points per armadillo and 3 per possum. Witnesses aren't required for animal hits only ears so you're on the honor system here.

Those drivers who aren't really on campus that much shouldn't despair because there will be some specialty awards given at the end of the week. There will be cash prizes for the farthest distance with a pedestrian and moped. A gift certificate from the Willis Knighton Emergency Room will be given to the student with the highest instructor/prof tally.

The overall winner, that driver with the most total points, will receive a $50 certificate from Pipe's U-Pull-It, a case of WD-40, a tour of the Fair Ground's race track and a guaranteed spot in the next demolition derby held in Hirsch Coliseum.

Should the competition become heated in the waning hours of the Race don't worry, the CP has already set-up a tie breaking procedure. The leaders will be set loose in their cars in the mall on Friday at noon. After fifteen minutes of crash and burn action the points will be totalled and a winner declared.

CP spokesmen think that this could be the most popular event ever sponsored and dismiss the game's critics by saying "hey, is it a commuter college or isn't it?" So shine those bumpers, sharpen those grills and happy motoring.

Campus Shorts

Volunteers needed

Volunteers are needed for experiments to be performed by the psychology department. All volunteers are promised post-experiment care.

War scheduled

The R.O.T.C. asked that all students take extreme caution in the Mall area today. The group is taking part in a series of war games with other local universities. Because of the use of live ammunition and shells, combat helmets are available for all students and may be obtained in the University Center Lobby.

SBA vacancies

Elections for all seats in the Student Bureaucratic Association will be held next Friday. This election is necessitated by the transfer of all previous members to Pineville.

Needy students

The Financial Aid Office would like for all students receiving federal aid to come by their office. The funds given to these students must be returned—the government is overdrawn.
